WOMEN GRABBER AT WORK KITTERY LETTER

Frightened Three Women on Pleasant Street and Got Away.

Three women were badly frightened on Pleasant street, shortly before ten o'clock Saturday night, when a man attempted to grab them with intent to assault. The fellow was one of the boldest and meanest kind of cur, for after one woman broke away from him and ran up the street, he waited and attempted to grab the others.

The case was brought to the attention of the police by turnkey Jack Philbrick at the jail, who reported that while on his way home Saturday evening he met a woman running up the street, badly frightened. She informed him that while passing along near the head of Gates street, a man suddenly jumped from behind a tree and grabbed her. As soon as she recovered from the shock, she broke away and ran up the street.

Mr. Philbrick while talking to the woman was passed by two ladies and they had got some little distance down the street when he told the first victim to go along, not thinking the fellow would bother two women together but they had just started when he saw a man jump out at the two women and attempt to grab them. He started on the run to their assistance, but the fellow saw him coming, and broke away and ran through Haven Park, and he had too great a lead for Mr. Philbrick to overcome.

Acting Captain of the Watch, West-on, sent Officers Anderson and Kelley down, and with Mr. Philbrick they made a thorough search of the park and that section, but failed to find any trace of the fellow.

MR. CHANDLER'S LETTER

Fac Simile of Communication on New Hampshire Governorship

The Herald's dispatch on Saturday, announcing the letter of Hon. William E. Chandler to Saturday's Herald, that the Herald has procured the above facsimile engraving of the letter itself as one of the notable documents.

Mr. Chandler's characteristic penmanship and direct style of expression help to make this a unique, valuable and interesting souvenir, in addition to the importance of its bearing upon the leading New Hampshire topic of the day.

To my Republican Friends in (March 4 1910) New Hampshire.
It seems to me that I ought now to tell you that I think we ought to nominate for Governor a radical but rational Progressive, other than myself.
He should be a man who has never taken the money or free passes of Mr. Tuttle and will not take any from Mr. Mallon. Sincerely,

LIVELY FIRE TODAY ON COMMERCIAL WHARF

Much Damage to Stock in Storehouse of H. A. Clark

Box 23 rang in shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon calling the fire department to a very lively blaze in the store and fish house of Herman A. Clark on Commercial wharf. The fire was confined to the low wooden structure and from the smoke and blaze which came through the doors and windows it looked at one time that nothing but ashes would be left. Some time was lost by the fire department owing to box 19 at the corner of Water and State streets refusing to work and the alarm had to be sent in from the box at the head of Washington street on State street.

The department did a good job after getting the long line of hose down on the dock and had it under control in fifteen minutes. The building is used for storage of oil, lobster bait traps, etc., and is covered by insurance.

The fire is said to have started from a stove located in the building. A second alarm came in voluntarily from box 19 after the fire was extinguished.

tinguished and caused no small amount of excitement for a while until the all-out signal was sounded a little later.

ELOPEMENT IN HIGH LIFE

Boston March 5.—An afternoon paper publishes the following:

Somewhere in New England, hunting for a marriage license and a willing pastor are Phyllis C. Knox, Jr., son of the Secretary of State, and Miss May Boller, a pretty Providence girl, who eloped from Providence last Friday. Their hunt has carried them to Montreal, New York state, and probably to Vermont and New Hampshire. They were last heard of at Plattsburg, N. Y., where it was said they were bound for Vermont or New Hampshire to find a kind hearted city clerk and a minister who won't be too fussy with questions about age.

The difficulty of young Knox and Miss Boller in getting married lies in the fact that both are under age. Knox is a student at the Morris Heights School at Providence in preparation for college and Miss Boller but recently finished her school life.

STEAMSHIP BURNED

Her cargo was valued at $250,000.

Republican Nominations for Town Officers

Special Matters to Come Before Town Meeting

Eliot, Me., March 7.

The prospect of making one nomination for a road commissionership, instead of three, as has been the custom in past years, brought out a good attendance at the Republican caucus held in the town hall on Saturday evening. The nomination went to Elbridge A. Goodwin without opposition. Samuel Dixon was nominated for moderator; Joseph H. Dixon for town clerk; Charles B. Gale, John B. Goodwin and Alfred Spinnery for selectmen; Moses B. Goodwin for treasurer; T. F. Staples for agent and also for auditor; Maurice S. Leach for collector of taxes; George A. Emery for constable; Willard H. Spinnery for member of the school committee; George A. Emery and Maynard F. Knight for truant officers. The caucus chairman was T. F. Staples and the caucus clerk Joseph H. Dixon. All nominations were made by acclamation. A Democratic caucus is expected to be held on Friday evening.

The warrant for the annual town meeting, to be held on March 14, contains several articles apart from the routine of choosing the necessary town officers and making the customary appropriations. One article is to see what the town will do about procuring a water supply. The State road proposition comes up in the form of whether the town will raise $400 for permanent improvements and receive a similar sum from the state. It is proposed to raise $100 for reducing the grade and straightening and widening the road between Charles DeCott's and the Captain Jenks estate. The repair of Spinnery's Creek bridge between Eliot Neck and Kittery is proposed.

Miss Myrtle A. Ham is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Albert C. Libbey, in Boston.

Rev. Charles O. Parker of Berlin, Mass., spoke at the Congregational church on Sunday. In the morning he preached on the call of the church bells and in the evening gave a talk on the work of the ministry. He was a guest at Howard P. Libbey's while here.

The funeral of John Edward Cook was held at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon from the home of James A. McCloud on Foy's avenue, Kittery Point. Rev. Edward P. Moulton of Kittery Point officiated. Interment was in Kittery Point cemetery under the direction of H. W. Nickerson.

The remains of Fanny Idella Withneck, the five-year-old daughter of John and Annie (Emery) Withneck of Portsmouth were brought to Eliot on Sunday for burial in the Emery family lot.

GET BUSY

Merchants interested in the agricultural county fair proposition discussed here for the past six months are trying to find what the big farmers will promise toward the plan. At the places visited by farmers here it is learned that many of the exhibits now going to Rochester and Newburyport could be depended upon for a Portsmouth fair, provided the latter is assured at an early enough date.

ESCAPED FROM COUNTY FARM

Leslie Powhattan, Who Was Sent There from This City

Leslie Powhattan, who was sent from this city to the county farm last week, did not make much of a stop on his first visit and was there hardly long enough to get acquainted with the place.

While out chopping wood, he took a chance and beat it through the woods, landing at Newfields, and packed himself away in the barn of Oscar Bean.

The unusual noises during the night attracted Mr. Bean and son to the barn, to find Powhattan snoring away in an ice cart.

He was immediately rushed back to the farm and the usual reward handed out to the farmer for his arrest.

POLICE COURT

William Bond, for intoxication, was sentenced to pay $5 and costs of $6.90.

Some colored parties, taken in a raid on Saturday night, and charged with keeping a disorderly house, were given permission to leave the city, the case being continued.

LAST OF A FAMOUS FAMILY

Woodbury Descendants Get Historic Articles, and Charities in This City are Remembered.

Ellen C. de Quincy Woodbury who recently died at Washington, was the last member of a celebrated New England family which not only figured at one time in the social life of Washington, but also left its imprint on affairs of the nation. As Miss Woodbury had property in Boston to be administered upon, a copy of her will has been filed in the Suffolk county probate office, together with a copy of the will of her sister Mrs. Virginia L. W. Fox, who also died in Washington.

Miss Woodbury and Mrs. Fox, who had lived at the Richmond flats in Washington for many years, were daughters of Hon. Levi Woodbury of Portsmouth, and were sisters of Hon. Charles Levi Woodbury of Boston, well-known lawyer and democratic political leader.

Levi Woodbury was contemporary of Daniel Webster and served as secretary of the navy under President Jackson and as secretary to the treasury under President Van Buren. At a later period Mr. Woodbury was a U. S. senator from and also Governor of New Hampshire, and succeeded Mr. Justice Storey upon the bench of the supreme court of the United States.

Charles Levi Woodbury inherited judicial qualities and led a useful and active life. He was born in Portsmouth, but spent much of his boyhood and youth in Washington, where his father, after becoming a member of the superior court, made his home. He came to Boston in 1845, where he took up permanent practice in the courts on the motion of Daniel Webster. Mr. Woodbury devoted his attention mainly to constitutional and international law and his contributions to legal literature were noteworthy and important.

In 1853 President Pierce offered him a foreign mission, which he declined, but later he accepted from President Buchanan the appointment of U. S. attorney for the district of Massachusetts. In politics he was a lifelong Jeffersonian and Jacksonian democrat, and his voice and pen were able exponents of the old school principles of that party, which honored him as a trusted leader.

Virginia L. Woodbury married Gustavus Vasa Fox who was an officer in the U. S. navy and took part in the Mexican war, but resigned and engaged in the manufacture of woolen. Immediately after the inauguration of President Lincoln Mr. Fox presented a plan for relieving Fort Sumter and he was sent to interview Maj. Anderson, who commanded the fort. As a result an expedition was fitted out under the command of Fox, but his efforts were futile, as on the morning Charleston harbor was reached the bombardment of Fort Sumter had begun. Mr. Lincoln then made Fox assistant secretary of the navy which office he filled with distinction during the civil war.

One of his ideas, which was successfully carried out, was the capture of New Orleans, and at his suggestion Farragut was put in command of the fleet.

In 1866 Mr. Fox was sent on a special mission to Russia and took part in negotiations which led to the purchase of Alaska. Subsequently he again entered into the manufacturing business and on his death left a considerable estate.

Mary Elizabeth Woodbury was the wife of Montgomery Blair, who was a soldier and a statesman. He was a native of Kentucky, and from that state was appointed to West Point, from which he graduated. He preferred the life of a lawyer to that of the military profession and after taking part in the Seminole war he took up the practice of law in St. Louis, where he served both as district attorney and as a judge.

He removed to Maryland in 1852, and from then up to the day of his death was a national factor. When the Missouri compromise was rejected he severed his connections with the democratic party and in the celebrated Dred Scott case he represented the defendant before the supreme court of the United States. During the administration of President Lincoln Mr. Blair served as postmaster general and was the pioneer in his movements in that branch of the service. His brother, Frank P. Blair, was a major general and commanded one of the corps in Sherman's army. When Horatio Seymour was nominated for President in 1868, Gen. Blair became the candidate for vice-president on that ticket.

The wills of both Mrs. Fox and Miss Ellen Woodbury not only dispose of large property interests, but also set out one of the most valuable collections of jewelry and rare treasures to be found in the United States. With few exceptions these are to be kept within the family and will remain in the possession of their nephews, Woodbury, Gist and Montgomery Blair, and their niece, Minnie B. Richey (formerly Blair) and their successors.

Relatives and friends in Washington, Portsmouth and elsewhere are generously remembered by Mrs. Fox, as are old family servants. Trust funds are created for their benefit, and when they terminate are to go to the nephews and nieces of Mrs. Fox.

The sum of $20,000 is to be divided equally between the St. John's of Portsmouth, Grace of Lawrence, St. Ann's of Lowell and St. John's of Washington, all Episcopal churches in accordance with the wishes of her husband, "and represent thank offerings from both of us, as from him, while living, and from myself as his survivor."

The National museum at Washington Mrs. Fox gives presents which her husband received from the emperor of Russia. These consist of three silver medals, one gold medal, one leather case silver mounted, which held the diploma of citizenship of Moscow, framed; one memorial picture of Novgorod, one silver salver and one silver salt cellar in the shape of an antique chair; one malachite casket that holds the diploma of citizenship of St. Petersburg, one gold snuffbox, one book of St. Alexander, 2d, four volumes of "Antiquities de Dussie" two volumes, "Musée de Tyarkoe Solo du Collection d'Armes," one volume "National Costumes."

Mrs. Richey was given an outright bequest of $20,000 and is to have a miniature of the emperor of Russia surrounded by diamonds, and diamond rings and other expensive jewelry. The letters of Mr. Fox are turned over to the Blairs, with instructions to keep them in the family and exercise great care in the use and disclosure of their contents.

Miss Woodbury's will is an interesting document in its disposition of personal property and effects to relatives and friends. Her niece, the present duchess of Arcois, receives a substantial legacy and jewels of almost priceless worth. Miss Woodbury also remembered the home for incurables in Washington with a bequest of $2,000, and the Chase home and Cottage hospital at Portsmouth with $500 each.

A considerable part of the residue of her estate is to go to the home for incurables, National Homeopathic hospital, George Washington university, and the Aid society for the blind, all of Washington, and the Woman's hospital on Lexington avenue, and the New York Woman's college and hospital, both of New York city.

Theatrical Topics

Coming Here Soon

This is the second and also the last week of Hurlietta Crossman in "Sham" at the Hollis street Theatre in Boston, before she begins the New England tour in which she will bring her new piece to this city. Of this production the Boston Sunday Post said:

"There has not been in Boston during the past week a single play with an unhappy termination. With the possible exception of 'St. Elmo,' which is solemn until the finish; every production being for smiling purposes, and the desired results have generally been attained. Miss Crossman came back after a three years' absence and of course, was warmly welcomed.

"I have always had a partiality for the lady as an actress. Although I have not the honor of her acquaintance, I recall her back in the 'Gloria' days, but it was not until she branched out as a star that her real merits became apparent. She stands out as a high class comedy and her mother is one of those of enthusiasm rather than subtlety, notwithstanding the fact that she can be very keen in her wit if she so desires.

"She is one of the few actresses who can read Shakespeare in a natural way, and her Rosalind is one which many would do well to copy. For it is easy and graceful and charming and other adjectives which I have not time at the moment to chronicle.

"She does not seem to be appalled by the greatness of Shakespeare, but acts on the principle that the dramatist was writing about human beings, not mythical creatures, who strutted and ranted and did all sorts of things which human beings never think of doing. So she was successful, and that is more than many can say who have had a go at the immortal bard.

"But 'Sham' is not Shakespeare, albeit it is a human play, exaggerated, of course, but only enough for stage purposes. A big moral painting looks unnatural at close range. Ask any proprietors of department stores or dressmakers or milliners, if the char-

FROM EXETER

The Candidates for the Town Officers

Track Record Broken at the Academy

Exeter, March 7.—The principal event this week will be the annual town election and it promises to be one of the most spirited for years, as all of the offices, with the exception of town clerk, are to be contested. The fight will, however, be pulled off at the caucus tonight, as all of the aspirants are Republicans and it is not a partisan contest.

For the office of selectmen there are Clarence Gatchell and John A. Brown of the old board, and Ernest C. Templeton, Benjamin P. Litch, J. Warren Tilton and George A. Janz; for highway agent, Newell S. Tilton and Andrew S. Irvine; for treasurer, Charles W. Barker and Charles A. Washburn; for tax collector, Walter W. Conner and Lewis S. Swail; and for the trustee of Robinson seminary, John A. Brown and Dana W. Baker. This office, will, however, be decided at the election Tuesday, as it is not a party office. Walter W. Conner and Ernest C. Templeton sent letters to the voters, in which they expressed their issues. Mr. Conner based his candidacy on the fact that he believed there should be a change in office after a period of seven years, the length of time that his opponent has held the office, and he declared that if elected, he would give $75 to the Cottage Hospital and $25 to the high school for athletics. Mr. Templeton bases his issues on the facts that he believed that the younger voters are entitled to one representative, and that he stood for an economical and thoroughly businesslike administration, and for fair and impartial treatment to every citizen. He also stood for all the reasonable improvements that the town could afford. Another salient point was that he had no affiliations which would prejudice him. These are the only two who have publicly expressed their issues by communication with the voters by letter. A rumor has been circulated that John A. Brown is to withdraw his candidacy for selectman, and save his forces for representative in the fall. This was without foundation, and declares himself a candidate for selectman, and not for representative.

Mrs. C. L. Actley has been awarded the quilt which has been on exhibition at Sanborn's clothing store and was disposed of for charity.

Having given the prescribed notice, Frederick Burns 11 of Boston on Saturday afternoon ran 300 yards in 32s. on the flying board track of the academy oval, breaking by three-fifths of a second the school record, established March 12, 1901, by H. E. Smith of Newburyport, who still holds the 440 yard record. Paced at the outset by O'Hara, who despite a few yards start was quickly overtaken, and then by Capt. Cornell Burns ran a beautiful race, and at the announcement of his success he was heartily applauded. As the largest point winner in the faculty shield meet, Burns has been awarded a cup offered by E. F. Field '07. The American amateur record for 300 yards is 30.25 seconds, made by B. J. Wefers on Sept. 26, 1896, at Travers Island, N. Y., and Burns is now within .55 of a second of that.

April 22 is the date appointed for the seminary's contest for the Merrill theatrical prizes. The school's Denish-Jer Verein announces for April 16 the presentation of a German flag.

At the meeting next Thursday afternoon the Thursday club of Phillips church will entertain the First Parish club. John F. Fraser of Rye will give an address on "Atlantic Submarine Telegraphy." He is head of the Rye cable station, to which he has been attached for 36 years. He is about to remove to Halifax, N. S., having been promoted to the superintendency of the station there.

Exeter branch of the National alliance will hold a social and public service next Thursday afternoon at the Unitarian vestry, with an address by Rev. Edward Green.

In police court Saturday Walker Tuttle was arraigned before Judge Shute, charged with being drunk. Tuttle came in from Portsmouth on the afternoon previous and was arrested. He had just completed a sentence at the Brentwood institution for the same offense, and upon receiving his freedom, soon became intoxicated. This time the judge gave him sixty days.

As the approach of the boating season on the Swameet river even now there is beginning to be much interest in the pastime, and it is understood that there will be several new rafts on the river. This sport is becoming more popular than ever, and last year there were many pleasure boats which plied parties from here to Great Bay and other points along the river. Among the new boats this season will be those owned by the Rev. C. J. Lary, Clarence Furlong, and William P. Tilton. These parties have the crew in construction.

The ice on the Swameet river has not yet begun to break, and the fishermen still continue their industry, although it is getting decidedly rotten and will not afford use much longer.

2431 NAVAL LINE OFFICERS
To Be Recommended in Bill from the House Naval Committee

Washington, March 7.—A bill prepared at the navy department and designed to reorganize the commissioned personnel of the navy and the marine corps will be introduced in the house this week by Representative Foss of Illinois, chairman of the committee on naval affairs.

If enacted the bill will become operative July 1 next. According to computations made at the navy department, there should be 3,000 officers for the 1,200,000 tonnage, which is approximately the present size of the navy. Under the proposed bill there must be eighteen vacancies in the year ending June 30 next down to and including the officers who have served since 1873. There will have been on that date thirteen retirements, and it will therefore be necessary to create five additional vacancies.

The number of officers in the grades will be as follows:

Admiral of the navy, 1; admiral, 1; vice admiral, 3; rear admiral, 18; captain, 70; commander, 112; lieutenant commander, 229; lieutenant, 423; lieutenant, junior grade, 151; ensign, 428, and midshipmen, 854. Including officers who are "extra numbers" and former engineer officers, who were transferred to the line several years ago, the total number of line officers would be about 2,431.

The proposed law will cause promotion in the line and staff corps. The medical corps will not be increased in number of members, but about forty officers will be promoted to higher grades. The pay corps will be increased from 200 to 220 officers, which will also cause readjustment of rank, thereby promoting several officers. The corps of naval constructors will be enlarged from seventy-four to eighty officers, and the corps of civil engineers from forty to fifty officers. There will be few changes in the organization of the marine corps.

STRANGE SUICIDE
Unknown Youth Killed Himself Today on Boston Common

Boston, March 7.—A young man, who bore every appearance of culture and refinement, committed suicide early today in the shadow of the Soldiers' monument on the Beacon street side of the Common, by shooting himself in the head. The body is at the North Grove street morgue and is as yet unidentified.

The body is that of a young man not over twenty-five years old and was dressed in the height of fashion. He had on a dark sack suit, black overcoat, black derby hat and black button shoes, all of which were of fine texture. He wore a fancy gray vest with buff trimmings. In the hat band was stamped the initials "L. L." and these same initials appeared upon a signet ring he wore on his little finger. He was about five feet seven inches tall, weighed about 120 pounds, with dark complexion, smooth face, brown eyes and hair. Nothing was found in his pockets that might lead to his identification, though on the hanger of his overcoat was the inscription "New Jersey." From the appearance of the clothing it looked as if the suicide had taken the trouble to remove everything from his person that might identify him, with the possible exception of the signet ring.

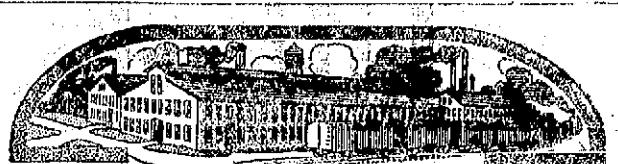

POSTAL TO HAVE NIGHT LETTER-TELEGRAMS

The Postal Telegraph Company announces that beginning Monday night, March 7th, it will render night letter service between all offices on its own telegraph lines and the lines of its direct connections in the United States. Messages of this new class will be known as "night letter-telegrams." They will be accepted at Postal telegraph offices over the counter or by telephone in the usual way. The charge for night letter-telegrams of fifty words or less will be the regular day rate for ten words and one fifth of this rate will be charged for each additional ten words or less. They must be written in plain English; Code or cypher will not be permitted. They will be accepted for transmission at night and delivered at station on the morning of the next ensuing business day by mail or messenger at the option of the company. The Postal Telegraph Cable company couples the foregoing announcement with a repetition of statement recently made by Pres. Clarence H. Mackey to the effect that the company has always been independent and has no intention of entering into any combination with the Western Union and the Bell telephone companies and that it intends to retain its independence and maintain active and aggressive competition in the telegraph field.

the Poisoner of Eleven USED STRYCHNINE PILLS

To Bring About Death of Thomas and Christman Swope, in the Opinion of Grand Jury—Alleged Attempt at Killing of Eight by Poisoning With Typhoid Germs—Mrs. Logan Swope
Reveals Household Secrets

Kansas City, March 7.—Dr. R. C. Hyde, husband of a niece of the late Colonel Thomas H. Swope, was indicted on thirteen counts in eleven indictments returned by the grand jury which has been investigating the Swope mystery for the last three weeks.

The indictments charge first degree murder in connection with the deaths of Colonel Swope and of Christman Swope. Hyde is alleged to have given them strychnine tablets. One indictment accuses Hyde of manslaughter in bleeding James H. Hinton, a cousin of Colonel Swope, in a neglectful manner.

The most surprising of all are the eight in connection with the alleged poisoning of the Swope family and visitors and attendants of the Swope household.

Dr. Hyde is accused in these indictments, which contain ten counts, of poisoning with typhoid germs, with intent to murder, Margaret Swope, Stella Swope, Lucy L. Swope, Nora D. Dickson, Georgia F. Compton, Mildred Fox and Leonora Copridge, a colored girl. All these persons were stricken with typhoid fever while Hyde was attending the Swope family.

Three counts in the indictment charge the poisoning of Miss Margaret Swope. The first count charges that he attempted to poison her by administering typhoid fever germs on or about Nov. 25. The second accuses him of trying to poison her by giving a hypodermic injection on Dec. 12. In the third count he is alleged to have attempted poisoning on Dec. 18 by giving her strychnine and other poisons.

Dr. Hyde received the news of the indictment calmly. He affirmed his innocence, and said he was confident a jury would vindicate him.

Disregarding the advice of her attorneys, Mrs. Logan O. Swope laid bare, while giving her deposition in the slander suit of her son-in-law, Dr. R. C. Hyde, the secrets of her household for many years.

She told the story of the courtship of Hyde and of her belief that he had attempted to murder her relatives and at one time tried to poison her. The charge that Hyde tried to poison Mrs. Swope is a new feature in the case.

"On Dec. 12 last he brought me a glass of water that tasted bitter," she said. "I drank some of it, and, noticing the peculiar taste, asked him where he got it."

"Out of the water cooler," he replied.

"He is trying to poison you, mother," said one of my daughters. "I demanded that he give me an emetic. This probably saved my life."

"Dr. Hyde married my daughter for money and not for love. He followed her like a hawk would follow a hen. She was his prospective prey."

ROCKEFELLER'S PLANS

Congress Wants to Know More About the Spending of Money

Washington, March 7.—Congress wants to know just how John D. Rockefeller intends to spend his money for the benefit of humanity. The senate committee on District of Columbia affairs took up the bill to incorporate the Rockefeller Foundation, introduced by Senator Gallinger.

Senator Gallinger was unable to give any details and it was decided to invite Starr J. Murphy, one of the incorporators, to appear before the committee next Friday.

Portland's Square-Riggers Gone
Portland, Me., March 7.—With the sailing away to Newport Novs of the bark Carrie Winslow the last square-rigger vessel belonging to the Portland customs district goes. The Winslow was built in 1880 and at that time was one of 119 square-riggered ships hailing from this port.

Baby Killed by Gumdrops
Milbury, Mass., March 7.—A gumdrop given to her by her father caused the death by strangulation of Mary L. Rhault, aged 9 months. The sweet lodged itself far down the child's throat and all efforts to remove it were unavailing.

Kendrick Knocked Out by Coulton
New Orleans, March 7.—Johnny Coulton scored a knockout in the nineteenth round of his fight with Tom Kendrick, the English claimant of the bantam weight title. This is Coulton's second victory over Kendrick within three weeks.

Pothier Afraid That Cranks in Rhode Island Will Take Him

Providence, March 7.—Because three atrocious murders have been committed in this state by "cranks" within three months, Governor Pothier has had High Sheriff Hunter assign him a special bodyguard at his offices in the state house. It is the first time that this has been done in Rhode Island.

Sheriff Hunter assigned Deputy Sheriff McCusker to the place for the present, but later a regular officer will be created.

CULLEN RELEASED ON BAIL OF $2000

What Bank President Thinks of Defaulting Teller

Boston, March 7.—John H. Cullen, former teller in the Union Institution for Savings, who is charged with a $1500 shortage in his accounts, was released on $2000 bail.

President Fallon of the bank says that Cullen ought to have been able to get along, even with a wife and six children, on his salary of $2000 a year without stealing.

"I believe Cullen's salary was sufficient to support himself and family," said Fallon. "In view of recent disclosures the inference is that Cullen went outside his natural circle of acquaintance and associated with younger men—single men who have no one to maintain but themselves. It is probable that in trying to keep up his end with such associates Cullen lived beyond his income, with the natural result."

BLACK IS DISCARDED

Blue, Pink and Lavender the Latest Colors For Coffins

New York, March 7.—The coffin trust, besides making most of the coffins in which people are buried nowadays, has just branched out and is now leading the world in setting the fashions in coffins. Within six months the fashion in coffins has changed as thoroughly as in clothes.

Three funeral processions moved down the Bowery on their way to the Williamsburg bridge and the cemetery in Brooklyn. The first hearse was drawn by white horses caparisoned in black net coverings. The hearse was black, but through its glass windows could be seen a bright pink coffin, apparently the casket of an adult. The next funeral was that of a half-grown child, and the casket was a bright blue, on which were worked figures of roses and carnations. The third funeral procession followed a hearse in which was a casket of lavender, beautiful, costly and exquisite in workmanship.

NEILL IS EXONERATED

Report Favoring Labor Commissioner
Is Accepted by Nagel

Washington, March 7.—Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor has accepted the report of a committee of officers of his department that there was no foundation for the charges preferred against Labor Commissioner Neill by Thomas R. Dawley, Jr., formerly special agent of his bureau.

Dawley alleged, among other things, that Neill altered reports on woman and child labor because the facts set forth did not support conditions which he had started to prove.

Not Very Generous to Wife

New York, March 7.—William Cornish of Inwood, L. I., has given his wife, she charges, only $10 for clothing during the forty-five years of their married life. She is suing him for a separation, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment.

General Wood Quits Hospital

Baltimore, March 7.—Major General Leonard Wood, who underwent two operations in a hospital here for an old injury to his head, left the institution pronounced cured.

POSTAL BANK BILL PASSED

Senators Divide According to Party Lines

DEMOCRATS GO AGAINST IT

Law Expected to Bring Much Money
Out of Hiding and Create Fund
Ranging from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000—Victory for the President, Who Kept Twisting Screws
In Face of Powerful Opposition

Washington, March 7.—Dividing upon party lines the senate passed the administration postal savings bank bill, by a vote of 50 to 22, the Republicans voting unanimously for it. All the negative votes were cast by Democrats, Senator Chamberlain of Oregon being the only Democrat in favor of the measure.

As it goes to the house, the bill authorizes the various money order postoffices to accept sums of $1 or more from depositors and to deposit these sums in the local banks, where the money is to remain unless withdrawn by the president in case of war or other emergency.

In case of this withdrawal the funds are to be invested in government securities, but with the proviso that such securities shall not draw less than 2 1/2 percent interest. The control of the funds is vested in a board of trustees composed of the postmaster general, the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general.

The aggregate balance allowed any depositor is $500 and no person is permitted to deposit more than $100 in any one month. The government is required to pay 2 percent interest and must exact not less than 2 1/2 percent from the banks, the extra quarter of 1 percent being required for the payment of expenses and losses.

It is calculated that such a law would bring much money out of hiding and result in a fund ranging all the way from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

The passage of the bill is, with the exception of the tariff bill, the first great administration measure to go through the senate and is a distinct victory for the administration and incidentally a greater personal triumph for Secretary Meyer, for it was Meyer who began the campaign for postal savings banks and kept it going.

It was the influence exercised by the president that put the bill through the senate. It was not intended there that the bill should become a law when it was first introduced. Senator Aldrich publicly announced that he was opposed to its passage at this time and thought that it would be wisdom to defer the creation of a postoffice banking system until the monetary commission had made its report.

But the president would not consent to postponement. A postal savings bank system, he said, had been promised the country in the Republican platform and he insisted that this promise must be kept.

Mr. Taft was subjected to an enormous amount of pressure. The opposition to the bill came from the national banks as well as the savings banks.

While the president was subjected to great pressure he was at the same time exerting equal pressure. He kept on saying to senators and representatives that the bill must be passed. The powers that be in both houses were opposed to him. But the president neither lost his temper nor threatened. He kept on smiling and twisting the screws.

Finally the matter resolved itself into the naked proposition—pass the bill or defeat an administration measure that the president insisted must be passed.

Mr. Taft staked a good deal on the outcome. Had the senate by a straight vote refused to pass the bill it would have been a severe blow to Taft's prestige and it would have greatly endangered the rest of his legislative program. Taft took that risk. The result shows that he is a good political strategist.

TOWN MEETING DAY

License Question an Issue in Many Bay State Communities

Boston, March 7.—In 190 Massachusetts towns today is "town meeting" day. Election of town officers and a decision on the local liquor question are the chief issues in most of the towns, although a number, which combine their annual business meeting with the election of officers, will settle upon their expenditures for the coming year.

For most of the 131 towns which do not vote today, election day comes later in the month or early in April.

Boston Was $500,000 Fire

Boston, March 7.—Four firemen were injured in a most spectacular fire when the New England office building at 200 Summer street was completely destroyed in a loss estimated at $500,000. Three men were caught by falling debris on the third floor, and carried unconscious to the street.

CAMBRIDGE BANK LOOTING

No Record of Transactions by Which Large Sums Were Lost

Boston, March 7.—The cases growing out of the wrecking of the National City bank of Cambridge will be presented to the federal grand jury tomorrow by United States Attorney French and Assistant United States Attorney Garland. It is expected that secret indictments will result and that further arrests will follow.

Special Agent DeWoolf of the department of justice said that the system of "check-kiting" revealed in the government's investigation by which the bank thefts of nearly $300,000 were covered up was one of the most adroit schemes he had found in his experience as an investigator of embezzlements.

Absolutely no record of the transactions by which the bank lost sums ranging from $1000 to $6000, and aggregating $100,000, in fifty separate transactions, can be found on the books of the institution.

"STROLL" OF SOCIALISTS

It Results in Many Being Injured in the Streets of Berlin

Berlin, March 7.—Serious conflicts between the police and Socialists, involving a lengthy list of wounded, were the outcome of most impressive open air demonstrations against the suffrage bill carried out in Berlin and the other cities of Prussia Sunday.

It is estimated that in Berlin alone 120,000 persons took part in what was called a "demonstrative stroll" in various parts of the city.

The police, in the majority of cases, acted with the utmost moderation, obeying the orders to avoid as far as possible using their arms, which were issued by Chief Von Jagow, who recently has been much criticized for his severity.

It was the provincial gendarmes who on this occasion came into the most serious conflict with the crowds.

LOUIS JAMES DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Noted Actor Is Stricken In Dressing Room of Theatre

Helena, Mont., March 7.—Louis James, actor, was stricken with heart disease in his dressing room at the Helena theatre and died at his hotel a short time afterward. The company will disband, and Mrs. James will return to her home at Kansas City.

Louis James was one of the best known actors of the "old school." His part was usually that of the tragedian. Before starting himself, he was associated with Lawrence Barrett, Modjesko, Frederick Warde and other stars, taking leading parts, chiefly in Shakespearean productions.

He was born in Tremont, Ill., Oct. 3, 1842. In 1871 he married Lillian Scanlon, who died in 1876. He then married Aphie Hendricks.

THREE SHOT IN RIOT

Unions Claim That 125,000 Workmen
Are Out in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, March 7.—The calm of the quietest day Philadelphia has known since the car men's strike began was broken last night by a series of disturbances in which three persons were shot, one a girl, fatally.

Many unruly persons were severely clubbed by the police and more than a score of arrests were made.

Conflicting claims still continue as to the number of men who have responded to the general strike call, and there seems to be no present way to obtain accurate figures.

The committee of ten in charge of the organized strike movement claims that 125,000 persons have left their employment to demonstrate their sympathy with the traction men's cause and help them win their fight.

Figures gathered by the police department, however, are cited by Director of Public Safety Clay to support his claim that not more than 20,000 men struck.

DR. BOLSTER RESIGNS

Was Known as the "Gretna Green Parson" of Nashua

Nashua, N. H., March 7.—Rev. Dr. W. H. Bolster, the "Gretna Green parson" of Nashua, resigned as pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, to take effect May 1, following a pastorate of twelve years.

Dr. Bolster formerly held parishes in several Massachusetts cities. He gained considerable fame in Nashua as the "marrying parson." He was the nearest minister to the city clerk's office.

MIND ACTIVE TO THE LAST

Sudden and Peaceful Death of Thomas C. Platt

PASSES AWAY IN HARNESS

Expected to Be at Work as Usual Today—Last of Republican Barons Who Represented a System Under Which He Exercised Great Power—
To His Friends a Leader, to His Enemies a Boss—Years in Politics

New York, March 7.—Thomas C. Collier Platt, from 1897 until last year a United States senator from New York, died Sunday afternoon at the home of Gustave Abel, with whom he had lived for the past four years.

The end was sudden and peaceful. The senator's last impression of this earth was the sight of his three sons, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank H. Platt; his grandson, Livingston Platt, and Mr. and Mrs. Abel, all of whom surrounded him as he passed away.

Death was caused by chronic and acute Bright's disease, a malady from which Platt had suffered for fifteen years.

Three-quarters of an hour before he expired he appeared to be in moderate health and in possession of all his faculties.

Mr. Platt was president of the United States Express company. Every working day he was at his office and bore his 77 years without hardship. He had planned to return to his work this morning as usual.

With Platt's death goes to his rest the last of the Republican barons. He represented a system, and under that system he was a power. In his own state the systems had passed away long before him.

To his friends he was a leader. To his enemies he was a boss. He was, perhaps, both. He typified all the arrogance of the old feudal lord, trampling out opposition with a ruthless foot. He typified all the gentleness of the graciousness of the old seigneur, lavishing favors on his retainers and rewarding a kindness threefold.

His life contained in it much that was good, some that was bad and some that was unpleasant. He was a man of contradictions. He possessed great strength and great weakness. He was broad and he was narrow. He was brave as a lion, and yet sometime possessed only the courage of deception.

His victories were always his own. He rose by his own efforts and he fell only when the infirmities of years descended on him, and then by the treachery of those he had made.

He was withal a very great figure in New York state, where he was exalted by his enemies as few men have been. He wrote his name on the history of his native state for a period covering nearly forty years, and when that can be said of a man it must be admitted that he had virtues and that there were strong elements in his character.

Mr. Platt was born in Oswego, July 15, 1833. He was educated in that school which believed "to the victors belonged the spoils" and he gloried in it. He came into politics in the days just after the war, when party spirit ran high. It was that spirit which made the stalwart and the half breed.

Mr. Platt was one of the "306" of Chicago. He was the "me too" butt of the American humorist. No man had such, violent to live down. No man faced greater humiliations. No man had reason to harbor more bitter resentments. No man had more implacable enemies. He lived the ridicule down; he faced the humiliations with a brave face. He kept alive or stifled his resentments as it suited him, but he punished his enemies when the time or the opportunity came.

WOMAN "COP" COMING

Mayor of Indianapolis to Introduce an Innovation

Indianapolis, March 7.—Mayor Shank is going to put some women on the police force. They will not be assigned to beats in the general sense, but will be detailed to duty in the down town districts. They will have full police powers—even to the right of eminent domain over the Greek on the corner fruit stand.

Mayor Shank says that he has had several conferences with Superintendent of Police Hyland on the question and will soon announce his up-jointees.

BANKER IS CUT UP

Knife Said to Have Been Fiercely
Wielded by Packer Cudahy

Kansas City, March 7.—Packing Jere P. Lillis, a millionaire local banker, in his home when he arrived unexpectedly at an early hour Sunday, John P. Cudahy, a wealthy packer and a son of Michael Cudahy, the Chicago millionaire, is alleged to have committed an assault upon the man, which led to his arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace. He was released on $100 bonds.

Lillis is in St. Mary's hospital. His condition is said to be critical. Cuts said to have been inflicted with a knife are on his face, limbs and one arm. If he recovers he will be disfigured for life, it is averred by physicians.

Before cutting Lillis, Cudahy is said to have bound him with a strong rope. One of Cudahy's chauffeurs was present.

Neighbors heard Lillis screaming in the Cudahy home and they called the police station. It was a woman who called. Her identity has not been established.

ADVANCE IS WORLD-WIDE

United States Not Alone in the High Prices For Meats

Washington, March 7.—Meat prices have advanced in all the principal consuming and producing sections of the world, according to statistics compiled by the department of commerce and labor.

The report shows the chief meat exporting countries of the world to be Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, Canada and the United States; the chief meat importing countries, the United Kingdom, Germany, and in a less degree the other European countries.

All of the meat exporting countries show higher prices per pound in their exports in recent years than those of a decade ago, and all the meat importing countries show higher rates in their import figures and the current market quotations.

"BACK TO THE FARM" MOVEMENT BEGUN

Montana Immigration Is the Greatest on Record

Have, Mont., March 7.—The rush for homesteads in eastern Montana by 1500 easterners has become the greatest immigration movement ever experienced in immigration in any section of the United States.

Home seekers are locating 320-acre homesteads in every section of eastern Montana along the Great Northern line, and ninety-four families filed on 320-acre homesteads in this city Sunday. They located at the rate of a score a week at Harlem and Chinook.

Immigration in eastern Montana is regarded as one of the greatest land movements in modern times. It is expected that this movement is the forerunner of a tremendous back to the farm movement scheduled for spring.

WIRES BREAK LONG PLUNGE

Boston Bay Escapes Unhurt After Falling Sixty Feet

Boston, March 7.—Harry Lewis, aged 10 years, of 3 Humboldt Park, earned the title of the "India rubber boy" when he fell from the roof of his house, a distance of sixty feet, Sunday afternoon and escaped practically unhurt.

The boy was playing with his brother on the slanting roof of a cupola that extends above the two-story house. The younger boy lost his hold and plunged down into the back yard, barely missing alighting on a board fence.

As he fell he clutched at some telephone wires which broke his fall and it is believed saved his life. He was not even stunned.

BULLET IN CHUM'S LUNG

Pistol Cleaning by Lawrence Man
May Result Fatally

Lawrence, Mass., March 7.—Leandro Ricco, lying at 123 Jackson street, was shot through the left lung by a 33-caliber revolver in the hands of his room-mate, Francesco Scarar. He is not expected to live.

According to the statement given the police by the injured man, it seems that Scarar, while cleaning the revolver, accidentally pulled the trigger. The bullet entered Ricco's left side and penetrated his lungs. Scarar was not arrested, as the police were sure it was an accident.

PEARY'S PROOFS

The partisan friends of Robert E. Peary are doing much to shake the public confidence of men in that great explorer. The statement of a party of his personal friends that they have secretly examined his proofs and that they bear evidence of a trip to the North Pole, is not such a statement as should be given to Congress when that body is asked to vote official honors and rewards.

If Mr. Peary wishes to withhold the full information, for the sake of pecuniary gain, that is one thing, but it is another thing to ask Congress to vote him the sort of reward that has been asked. The request should be accompanied by proofs such as Mr. Shackleton submitted to the British authorities and made public to the world in general before he was honored with a baronetcy and a grant of money.

We mention Mr. Shackleton's name because Britain's treatment of him is the recent conspicuous instance which Mr. Peary's friends have been quoting as a suitable example for the United States to follow. We agree with them, when the proper preliminary steps are taken by Mr. Peary or his friends, the same as were taken in behalf of Mr. Shackleton.

This whole matter has been conducted with more temper than sense, and the latest exhibitions of temper, in the form of assailing a congressional committee, are tiresome to the spectators.

The people will officially honor Mr. Peary, and it is beyond question that Congress desires to do so but Congress should not be asked to buy a "pig in a poke," even if the "pig" is asserted to be the genuine north pole.

BIRDS EYE VIEWS

At least one of President Taft's promises to the country has been kept, but it was a promise with which Congress had nothing to do. It was the reduction of the standard strength of the army. President Taft, while at Beverly last summer, said he would have the personnel strength of the army reduced to 83,000, and maintained at that figure during peace. He has done so. The present strength of the army is something more than 75,000, and orders have been issued to all recruiting stations by Maj. Gen. Alsworth, Adjutant General, that all recruiting must cease and that only discharged soldiers desiring to re-enlist shall be accepted. The war of 1898, the Filipino insurrection following and still later, the occupation of Cuba, kept the strength of the army up to about 100,000 men. This strength was not maintained after the second occupation of Cuba.

According to the stories from London the proposed remodeled house of Lords will resemble a cross between the Boston and Maine Holding Company and the Burdock Club.

Half a million "spikes" are being turned out by the Republican congressional committee for the coming campaign for Congress. These "spikes" are something new, designed to take the place of the cumbersome campaign document of the past. The "spike" is a vest pocket size campaign document, designed for ready reference and to be read as one runs or rides. A speech by Representative McKinley of Illinois is being used as "Spikes A."

The United States outside of Massachusetts is undoubtedly amazed at the nomination of William J. Buchanan for Representative to Congress as a republican. Mr. Buchanan acquired a national reputation as a campaign lieutenant of William L. Douglas when that gentleman was elected governor of Massachusetts as a democrat.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

The Skunks of Massachusetts. The hearing on the proposed bill for the protection of the skunk in Massachusetts was interesting in its revelation of virtues heretofore not popularly supposed to be possessed by the despised and shunned mephitic. In the popular mind the skunk has been associated with nothing more useful and attractive than a powerfully disagreeable odor, but champions of the animal assert that its principal food is field mice and beetles, by the destruction of which it has proved itself a valuable friend to the agriculturist. The advocates of the measure ask the legislature to make the killing of a skunk an offense punishable by fine and imprisonment varying from $5 to $500 and from one month to one year in jail in some sections of the state, and especially in parts of western Massachusetts, skunks are now too numerous for comfort. What the situation would become if the animal were protected as the deer is may be conjectured. If the skunk really is necessary to the well-being and prosperity of the fruit grower it is essential that should be given some measure of protection but we doubt that the legislature will be inclined to go the limit and accord the fragrant animal all the year around immunity from slaughter. —Springfield Union.

Canada's Pointer on Postal Banks. Now the total deposits of the postal savings banks, after forty-two years, are less than the deposits of one savings bank in Cleveland, and Canada, not only contains a population of at least 7,000,000, but the largest banks in the Dominion dwarf the biggest banks in Ohio.

It is clear that in countries like the United States, where the opportunities for the profitable use of money are many and good and there are thousands of banks competing for the use of savings and other deposits, no system of postal savings banking can do more than fill out the chinks in the banking facilities already in use. The postal savings system will help in country places remote from good banks, and it will draw into use a good deal of money now hoarded and kept in concealment by persons who distrust all banks but it cannot affect materially, if properly safeguarded, either the general financial situation or the welfare of banks which deserve the confidence of the public. —Cleveland Leader.

The Rockefeller Foundation. With so vast a fortune there are few things looking to the conquering of disease, the mastering of science and the advancement of the race this corporation cannot do. The Rockefeller Foundation should pass into the years to come as a monument the like of which has never been seen.

In all this there is a pathetic note. John D. Rockefeller purposes to give his money to the people, for their advancement, yet he will go down to his grave the most execrated man in all America. Neither his money, nor his gifts, nor his philanthropy, nor his excellent intentions can prevent this. The world will accept his gift and make good use of it, it is to be hoped. But although Mr. Rockefeller could easily have done otherwise

A TIMELY TOPIC.

BY CHARLES GREEN In Agricultural Epitome

Importance of Grass.

IN attempting to farm without grasses, the farmer is lifting without a lever. He is pulling his load with the weight on the hind wheels. He is cutting with a dull saw.

First of all, grow more grasses and study how to build up the fertility of the soil so that it will grow larger and better crops of nutritious grasses. You may convert the grass into milk and its products into flesh and into manure for grain crops, or you may sell the hay by the ton, according to the needs of your particular location.

It sounds foolish to hear men talking about farming without grasses and land that can be made to yield at least two tons of well cured hay to the acre. The greatest thrift that we have seen among the farmers in various parts of the ten leading agricultural states has been on farms of about 100 acres where grass was the basis of their farming and where this grass was fed out to animals that were kept on their farms.

Without grass it is impossible to keep up a rational system of crop rotation and build up the fertility of the soil for future crops. A farmer can not afford to grow half a ton of grass to the acre any more than he can afford to grow ten bushels of wheat or corn. Such crops will keep him poor forever.

with his wealth, the public sentiment will remain that he is merely making restitution—and not reaching the individuals who should in stern justice receive it.—Boston Traveler.

LITERARY NOTES

The March Recreation

Recreation this month contains a dozen or more profusely illustrated articles, besides numerous short, practical and informative paragraphs dealing with all manner of recreation and outdoor life. A lumberjack stolidly standing on a giant spruce log as it roasts down a mountain stream, forms an effective cover, in fine color.

The ex-chief forester, who has lately been much in the public eye, is a noted expert with a revolver, and according to Charles Frederick Holder in this magazine, he drew all of his large and small game hunting with this weapon. Mr. Holder describes a trip in company with Mr. Pinchot and ex-Governor Pardee of California, in which the party spent a day hunting the orca, or killer whale.

Swearing at Central

In Denmark recently manners over the telephone have not been all they might be, and the operators have suffered. A scheme of retribution has been devised. Whenever "Central" receives any obnoxious words which she does not fancy she promptly switches the end of the line on to a receptive phonographic disk. Thus the speaker's discourtesy is earned. He is summoned to the telephone headquarters, or haled into court and if he denies the charge he is convicted out of his own mouth. It is said that telephonic speech in Denmark is improving.—Editorial in Collier's, for March 5.

Van Norden's Magazine Suspended

The Van Norden Magazine, which had been fostered for three years by young Warner M. Van Norden of New York, has suspended publication under the old management. Mr. Van Norden, who reported to the police a few weeks ago that he had been robbed of $25,000 by two women opposite the Waldorf-Astoria, is now in Carlsbad, Germany. Negotiations are under way for the purchase of the magazine's subscription lists by the publishers of Current Literature and according to one of the officers of that periodical the deal will be completed.

It had been rumored for several weeks that the magazine was in difficulties, but the March issue was printed at the usual date. In telling the recent history of the publication an officer of the company said: "The present administration came into control last June. Allen Francis Walker had been appointed editor-in-chief in March and was asked by the elder Van Norden to reorganize the entire plant. Walker did this and was elected president and treasurer, at the same time retaining his position as editor-in-chief. Mr. Van Norden was a director, not an officer, but he was the man who put up the money."

"When the new administration took control it faced a loss of $250,000 and a circulation of less than 10,000 net. The reorganization was effected, and in eight months the circulation had jumped to 100,000, with a loss of but $35,000. Suddenly, when the periodical was about self-supporting, Warner Van Norden, after his adventure, became so ill that even his family was not allowed to talk business to him. His father then informed Mr. Walker that he was unwilling to put up another cent in support of the magazine."

"The officers of the company considered the suspension of the publication a business tragedy for which they are not responsible."

This magazine in its February number had a weird writup of the York bridge controversy. It is stated that the new owners may decide to continue the magazine

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Suggested to Board of Public Works Editor Herald.

I read recently in the columns of your paper that the board of public works will be quite busy this summer in the street division, and that Hanover, Market and Ceres streets are to receive some attention in the way of repairs. While these streets certainly need all that the city can afford to put out on them, it strikes me that nothing is anticipated for Daniel street from Penhallow street to the ferry landing, and I venture to say that if any thoroughfare needs repairing it is this section of that street. If we cannot spend any money there let us in some way or other arrange to sprinkle the street during the summer season and put an end to the terrible condition which exists there every heated season.

PORTSMOUTH TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

The March meeting of the Portsmouth Teachers' association will be held in the Assembly hall, High school on Thursday evening, March 10, at 8 o'clock.

The speaker will be Principal Jeremiah M. Rhodes of the new state normal school, at Keene. His subject is "For the Life's Work."

Musical selections will be rendered by a male quartet consisting of Messrs. Silver, Catwell, Bilbrich and Merrick, and Mr. Bilbrich will sing a solo.

A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to be present and give Mr. Rhodes a hearty welcome.

MINISTER RESIGNS AT DERRY

Derry, March 7.—After a pastorate extending over a period of nearly twenty-one years Rev. J. H. Nichols tendered his resignation as pastor of the Baptist church here on Sunday.

A meeting of the Country Club will be held at eight o'clock this evening.

A CHEMIST'S DISCOVERY

New Remedy for Eczema and Other Skin Troubles

The most remarkable feature about Cadum, the new remedy for skin diseases, is that its beneficial action is seen in every case where it is applied. Not a single instance has been found where it failed to allay the terrible itching of eczema at once. People who have been afflicted with eczema for years and have tried everything without being relieved should take fresh courage for the new remedy Cadum is different from anything else. It is the discovery of a chemist, who felt for years that the world needed a cure for eczema and other skin diseases, and as a result of his studies and experiments Cadum was the outcome. While possessing such remarkable powers in overcoming different forms of skin troubles, Cadum contains no dangerous ingredients. When applied over inflamed sores on the face and hands, it forms a thin, almost invisible coating, so that the disease is covered up while the healing process is going on. The size is intended for trial purposes by those who wish to test its wonderful virtues in skin troubles such as: bives, pimples, hives, itching, itchy, acne, horrow, scaly skin, rash, psoriasis, ringworm, chafing, eruptions, sores, scabs, itching piles, eczema, etc. Large boxes 25c at all drug-gists.

ONE MOMENT PLEASE!

Electric Sign advertising is no longer an experiment. The most successful firms of world-wide reputation as well as the stores with whom we have done business give us facts that prove the advertising worth of Electric Signs to be far in excess of any method of advertising that has ever been devised for the amount expended.

Look for the most enterprising city of today and you will find one that uses Electric Signs on all available locations and where merchants appreciate the advertising value and use light. I am making and selling the best signs that can be produced, not the cheapest, but signs that will stand up and give service for years. Recent inventions have reduced the cost and also the cost of maintaining. Public spirit and civic pride demand well lighted business sections in our cities, why not do your part with a well lighted, artistic Electric Sign and increase your business as well.

I charge nothing for estimates or sketches and am always willing to explain details and serve your interests. Respectfully yours,

Shea of Boston and the members of Dover Nest, numbering 100, came by special car and ably assisted in carrying out the program. A class of six candidates was selected and the degree work conferred upon them, after which the members present were obligated. Following the routine work a social session was enjoyed during which interesting remarks were made by William H. Mellen, Joseph Haley, James Noonan, P. J. McManus of Dover Nest, President Herbert B. Dow, General Organizer Caulfield and Deputy Organizer M. M. Shea. Musical selections were rendered by Peter Durand, Edward Perry of Dover Sergeant Snyder U. S. M. C. and Archie Kelley. General Organizer Caulfield gave a whistling solo, accompanied by John Jackson on the harmonica, and John J. Brennan of Dover and George W. Griffiths gave recitations. A rising vote of thanks was extended to the organizers, Messrs. Caulfield and Shea.

The officers elected are as follows: Past President, J. M. Moorcroft; President, Herbert B. Dow; Vice-President, C. E. Jackson; Invocator, Elmer E. Staples; Warden, A. B. Joy; Secretary, George M. Trustees—Sherman T. Newton, Guy E. Corey, Clarence H. Paul. Committee on by-laws—Aaron D. Cole, G. H. Sanderson, Guy E. Corey. Portsmouth Nest, Order of Owls, starts under the most favorable conditions and its membership, it is believed, will have a steady and prosperous growth.

THE PORTSMOUTH ELKS

Will Have Election on March 10 and Big Meeting on March 30

A regular session of Portsmouth Lodge, No. 97, B. P. O. E., will be held at the Elks' Home, Pleasant street, Thursday evening, March 10, at eight o'clock.

The annual election of officers will be held at this meeting—in compliance with the recent change in the grand lodge statutes which provide that the election shall be held at the first meeting in March.

Under a recent decision of the district deputy, members may be stricken from the roll after six months. A member may be dropped as soon as $12 are due the lodge; that is, after he is more than six months in arrears, he may be dropped if the lodge so decides by a majority vote.

The night of the big noise will be March 30, 1910. A special meeting will be called for work on 15 or 20 candidates.

DUPLICATE WHIST

Likely to be Played by Pierce Firemen and the Warwick Club

Editor Herald: I notice in your Saturday issue a challenge from the whist players of the Franklin Pierce Veteran Firemen's association for a series of games with the whist players of the Warwick club.

They say in their challenge progressive whist and duplicate whist. I do not think it would be possible to get any of the Warwick players to indulge in a contest of progressive whist, for it would show (which ever side you) who were the luckiest holders of cards.

If the veteran firemen will play duplicate whist which is very simple and demonstrates which side plays the best, I think a game can be arranged. W. C. Portsmouth, N. H., March 7.

MUSIC HALL
Standing Room was at a Premium at Saturday Night's Picture and Vaudeville Show.
Sherman's picture and vaudeville show packed Music Hall to the doors Saturday night, and the large audience went away well satisfied with the entertainment. The pictures included the Saturday releases of the Pathe company, "Pierrot," "A Good Turn," "Poet of the Revolution." The Gaumont company's release for Saturday, "The Ranch Girls Legney" and "The Ostrich and the Lady," also a fine detective story, "The Livingston Case," and a good drama "Confession."
All the pictures were much appreciated.
Johnson and Kew "The Rube and the Rubes," headed the vaudeville program and their act made a decided hit. Mr. Johnson is an old timer and the audience early recognized his ability. He was ably assisted by Miss Ke-Tom Ferris, the Italian impersonator, repeated his success of Thursday an-
Friday, his act being well received.
Miss Clements, character comedian billed to appear did not arrive.
Miss Dayton in a straight singing act was substituted. Her style and voice did not please.
The usual show will start in next Thursday afternoon.

LADIES' NIGHT

evening at the North church chapel.
The speaker will be Mr. Everett W.
Lord, the secretary of New England, of the child labor committee. His address will be on "The Boy and the Job" and it will be illustrated by pictures, showing child labor.

rection of O. W. Ham.

How's Your Liver?
The natural laxative and antiseptic of the bowels is the bile, which is secreted by the liver. The bile is nature's lubricant. When your liver is torpid it produces less bile, and of course the bowels become clogged with poisonous matter which finds its way into the blood, producing biliousness and indigestion.
Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills are by far the best remedy to empty the bowels and relieve congested conditions. They act as a true tonic to the liver, preventing as well as curing constipation. One or two of these pills taken every night mildly stimulates the liver and corrects biliousness without the driving purgative effects of harsh drugs. Their gentle laxative action especially commends them to ladies who bloat after eating and are subject to periodical headaches. To secure a healthy secretion of bile, thus establishing perfect bowel regularity, these little pills possess merits peculiarly their own, not found in other remedies.
Physicians use and recommend. They form no habit. You should always keep them on hand. These little Vegetable Pills will ward off many ills.

THE LATEST FAD IN FASHIONDOM IS THE SO CALLED TUNIC DRESS.

THE very latest fad in the fashion world is the tunic dress. The appellation is something of a misnomer, for the costume is really a fully equipped gown, generally of the lingerie type, over which is a confining effect, lately known as a tunic, falling over part of the bodice and shirt. The frock illustrated has a tunic drapery worn over a trailing costume of champagne chiffon cloth. This drapery is of black brussels net striped with tracings of jet. A band of jetted black velvet outlines the entire garment.

A LITTLE DUTCH BONNET.

The Dutch bonnet still finds favor in the juvenile showing of spring millinery, and the example illustrated is good looking in the extreme. The foundation is a leghorn flat of medium size, shaped into the semblance of the bonnet worn by the peasantry in the land of windmills, tulips and pretty Holland maidens. Very likely the Princess Julliana, the tiny girl who someday is destined to rule over Holland, will wear a bonnet this season somewhat on the order of the creation responsible for her royal mother's has a decided penchant for the native costume of her subjects. But, to return to the Dutch bonnet under discussion, it is trimmed with narrow ruffles of pink chiffon, very full and tightly gathered, that follow the contour of the bonnet shape. Satin ribbon in a little deeper tone of pink and a bunch of rosebuds nestle at one side of this fascinating piece of millinery.
The ties are of the satin ribbon.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Ordinary fruit baskets can be given a coat of other paint and if lined throughout with yellow and pink cretone will make attractive scrap boxes.
Among the new trimmings are flat braids and cords. The method of trimming goes by the same name.
The braid is hard and shiny and difficult to bend into the various designs.
One of the most successful ways to darn woools and silks is to take ravelings from the materials. Wax with the best grade of wax. In this way the thread of silk matches the goods exactly.
Restfulness of Massage.
Massage is restful not only to the body, but to the mind, and is to be recommended to very nervous women who have not acquired the art of relaxation. Expert masseuses will not give massage unless the patient promises to rest at least one hour after the treatment. So many muscles are brought into play that the bodily exercise gone through with is the equivalent of a walk of several miles, and physical fatigue is a natural result and rest an absolute requirement.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES.

Graham bread and brown bread are both excellent for sandwich purposes, and raisin bread, "with lots of raisins in it," is a welcome change.
A teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cupful of tepid water will remove all stains from walls and skin and loosen the cuticle better than a sharp instrument.
Round jelly cake pans make excellent pot covers by turning upside down and placing in center a small wooden knob, obtainable of any grocery. Two can be bought for 5 cents.
New linen for working upon should be rubbed over with a dry cake of soap. This will render the fabric soft, so that drawing threads of embroidery upon it will be much facilitated.
While it is advisable to pack a water bag flat, occasionally there is necessity for rolling it. If so, it is well to lay a piece of cloth or paper over the bag first; then there will be no possible danger of the sides of the bag sticking together.
Carrots will make delicious preserves. Take three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of carrots and sufficient water to make a syrup and boil until the preserves are thick.
A little ginger or lemon should be added to favor.
To use cold halibut or other white fish remove the bones, flake it and arrange it in layers in breadcrumbs and season in a buttered baking dish. Cover the top with buttered crumbs, turn in hot milk to moisten sufficiently, sprinkle grated cheese over and bake.

"Get Thin!" Cries Paris.
"Get thin!" is the cry of Paris at this moment. In fact, a superfluous ounce of flesh is more odious to the Parisienne just now than the unexpected visit of a detested mother-in-law. The New York woman as well has succumbed to the fashion of the moment. And one marvels to see how amazingly slim even one's stoutest friends have become.
Now, the secret of this amazing thinness is really that one is suffering an optical illusion born of the gargole's and dressmaker's skill, and thin looking people are not really thin after all. These wonderful artists have learned how to dispose of an overplentiful supply of top apparent flesh and bestow upon it becoming and graceful lines and curves. Dieting also plays its part, and more than one woman who plies for long and glender lines has been heard moaning,
"I haven't had a square meal this winter."
Englishwomen are devoting themselves to the fascinations of the jumping rope, and skipping is a fad just now at English country homes and week end parties.
One of the main factors in the acquiring of flesh is the lack of exercise, women indulging in indolence and the luxury of riding where a good brisk walk would be the savior of health, temper and figure. Fresh air is the best of all tonics; and a long walk in a pleasant frame of mind can do much toward keeping one in good condition.

PUTS AN END TO STOMACH MISERY
Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia Vanish in Five Minutes

Every family here ought to keep some Diapensin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of indigestion or Stomach trouble at any time, day or night.
This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a distressed, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.
If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.
Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapensin and take a little just as soon as you can.
There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping.
This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.
Pape's Diapensin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.
Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store, waiting for you.
These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure almost any chronic case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other Stomach trouble.

NEWINGTON
A poverty dance was held at the town hall on Friday evening. A large number of young people were in attendance. Conney and Waterhouse orchestra of Portsmouth furnished the music.
The annual Sunday school dinner was given in the town hall Saturday afternoon. A large number was present, including all the Sunday school pupils. The dinner was furnished by the teachers and consisted of candies, rolls, several kinds of meats, cakes, pies, fruit and chocolate. Each child was given a shining nickel to invest in any way one could in order to add to their capital. At the end of the year, each one is to tell what he or she has done and the profits are to go to increase the Sunday school treasury.
The Reapers society will meet with Miss Gertrude Beane on Tuesday afternoon. It is hoped that the members will make an effort to attend, as many things are to be arranged for the Easter sale.
Mrs. Aleck Archibald and two children of Gravely Ridge, were present at the Sunday school dinner on Saturday afternoon.
George Neil spent the week-end with friends in town.

WOMAN PREACHER AND PHYSICIAN
THINKS WE NEED POLICEWOMEN.

THE Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, a doctor of divinity and a doctor of medicine, is an earnest advocate of the appointment of women to the police force of large cities. For fifteen years Miss Shaw has expressed the belief that women police would do a great deal toward decreasing and preventing crime, and the other day in an interview she expressed herself as being more earnestly than ever in favor of the innovation.
"One thousand policewomen," she declared, "would do more to purify the city of New York than any other reform of which I know."
It is Miss Shaw's idea that police-women should be stationed at all moving picture shows, dance halls, in the public parks and in the vicinity of saloons. She believes that they would be able to prevent a great deal of the lawbreaking that is committed at these places. They would see to it that minors are not served with liquor, that young girls are not permitted to get into the grasp of depraved men and that liquor dealers obey the laws in general.
"The function of a policeman, in my opinion, is less to punish than to prevent crime," says this preacher doctor. "The policeman is a watchman, and many cases arise where a watch-woman would be more efficacious because of the maternal instinct which makes her a better guardian of the interests and lives of children."
Dr. Shaw studied medicine and took her degree so that she could work among the unfortunate women in the slums of Boston. For three years she practiced medicine there and received

DR. ANNA H. SHAW.
In her policewoman idea and says she would like to be a policewoman herself.

QUEEN VICTORIA OF SPAIN AND HER LATEST BABY.

THE young queen of Spain, contrary to many forecasts and forebodings at the time of her marriage to King Alfonso XIII, May 31, 1906, is said to be a happy, contented wife. She was one of the popular princesses of the younger British set, being known familiarly as Ena.
Her full name was Victoria Eugenie Julia Ena Maria Christina.
The first child born to the royal couple is the little Prince of the Asturias, who, like his mother, has a list of names long enough to make a necktie if strung on a string. He is called Don Alfonso and was born May 10, 1907.
Don Alfonso, of course, is heir apparent to the throne of Spain.

CLUBWOMEN HELP TO CLEAN UP
PANAMA CANAL STRIP.

MRS. PHILIP N. MOORE of St. Louis, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, and other well known clubwomen are receiving the thanks of government officials because of conditions in the zone, a good deal of which appears to have been well founded. The housing of the laborers, their insanitary environment and various other matters came in for a share of the criticism. The women's clubs undertook to remedy these matters, and by hard work and persistent endeavors they have done much toward making the canal zone a fit place for the habitation of human beings.
Not only has much of the general cleaning up been done at the suggestion of the clubwomen, but reading rooms and other public places of recreation and culture have been established mainly through their efforts.
The wives of some of the officials connected with digging the canal are prominent clubwomen, and, though far removed from their native spheres of action, they do not propose to enjoy south sea siestas all the time, notwithstanding the fact that the climate of the canal strip induces to languor.

Facts Useful to Know.
To cool a hot dish in a hurry, place
it in a vessel full of cold salt water.
If mixed with milk instead of water, mustard will not get dry, but will keep nice and fresh until it is all used up.
A little vinegar put in the water in which eggs are poached will keep them white and prevent them from spreading.
When using valuable vases for table decorations fill them with sand, for this makes them stand firmly and renders them far less liable to be knocked over and broken.

MRS. PHILIP N. MOORE.

canal zone by clubs affiliated with recent date there was much criticism

Humor and Philosophy

BY DUNCAN M. SMITH

CERT PARAGRAPHS.

SOME people put out such good samples of their wares that there is nothing of the quality left for their fellow up.

Making money is the vocation of some men, and spending it is the vocation of their wives.

Losing a dollar may be bad luck, but having none to lose is worse.

A real bond is always open to the suspicion of knowing all about the action of certain chemicals.

Being smart is the special prerogative of all youths and some men.

One beautiful thing about a castle in the air is you don't have to pay taxes and special assessments on it.

Pause and think twice before you judge your neighbor—and then don't.

A desirable acquaintance isn't, as a usual thing, around looking for friends.

Prepared.

Yes, I've got
My articles handy,
Put my rubber
Boots in shape,
And I'm taking
Swimming lessons—
Any method
For escape.
Fixed the roof.
With every router,
Got a hairmop
I can swing,
And, you bet,
I'm getting ready
For the freshest
In the spring.

Sure, I've had
My suits extended
Like a sleeping
Circus pole,
And the old boat
I have mended—Calked up
Every crack and hole—
Got a bunch
Of life preservers
Tied together
With a string—
Everything
Is fixed and waiting
For the freshest
In the spring.

This time
Will it catch me napping?
No; you bet
That it will not.
I'll be there
When folks are washing
All the corners
From the lot.
This time
I will not be listed
As a soft
And easy mark,
And to make
The thing
Real certain
Maybe
I will buy an ark.

Of Some Importance.

"I knew she had been dying to go on the stage for some time, but her parents wouldn't hear of it."
"But she finally got their consent."
"And now she is going?"
"Yes; just as soon as she gets the consent of a manager."

Probably.

"He says he is wedded to his art."
"He is?"
"That's what he says."
"Then I can tell you one thing."
"What is it?"
"The lady will soon be suing him for divorce."

He Should Know.

"My mother-in-law hasn't a tooth in her head."
"That is unfortunate. But I would like to know one thing more."
"What is that?"
"Has she a tongue?"

Thought Higher Up.

"My corns hurt me so I can't write."
"That wouldn't bother me."
"Wait till you get some and see."
"I know it wouldn't. I don't think with my feet."

Accurate Information.

"Is there plenty of water here?"
"Lots of it."
"How far down do you have to go?"
"Till you come to it."

Thoroughly Practical.

"I hear he is a practical joker."
"Practical! I should say so. He reduces all of his jokes to writing and sells them for cash."

Certainly.

"What is a good janitor?"
"One who keeps us in hot water all the time."

FUNERAL AT STRATHAM

The funeral of Flora Gertrude Barker was held at 2.30 Sunday afternoon from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Barker, Rev. H. Y. Vinal reading the funeral service. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery, Stratham, under the direction of Undertaker H. W. Nickerson.

An interesting illustrated article on the Isles of Shogals and the harbor of Refuge by Winfield Thompson, the yachting editor, was in the Sunday Globe.

THE MAN AND THE METHOD.

Among many interesting and instructive features of the late national horticultural congress at Council Bluffs, Ia., perhaps none has received greater commendation and publicity than the apple exhibit of a Mr. Mincer of Hamburg, Ia., a little town located in Fremont, the southwest county of the state. It seems that Mr. Mincer has for several years past had charge of a twenty-acre orchard, which for some time previous had been badly neglected. On taking charge he began spraying and gave the orchard in other respects the best care he could. Last year he attended the horticultural show at Council Bluffs and exhibited a few apples, but they were not on top of the standard of the western fruit. However, he kept his eyes open, took notes and pumped the western much-mien as to just how they produced their fine fruit. He found that it was by giving intensive, painstaking care to a few acres which made improved methods possible. He acted on this suggestion and devoted most of his attention last season to seven acres. When he appeared at the fruit show last November he had an exhibit which was considered by both visitors and judges to be one of the very finest in the hall. He had gained size and color, while in the packing of his exhibit, he had been assisted by a young lady who had had experience in Idaho packing houses. The net result of his efforts was that he was awarded a number of the most valuable prizes and trophies which were put up. On the business side he not only received a high price for the choice apples left after his show stock was selected, but was offered $3 a box straight for his exhibit fruit. This instance not only points to the immense educational value of these national fruit exhibits to providing a stimulus for better efforts, but shows what is even more important—that after all is said and done it is more the man and his method than it is climate and soil that are the chief determining factors in the attainment of success in the fruit business. This man's achievement should be a source of encouragement to fruit growers in all sections.

POOR CLAY TILE.

Not long ago there appeared an article in this department warning prospective users of drain tile against cement tile improperly made. A friend who is engaged in the manufacture of cement tile in a letter recently made a short time ago admits the truth and fairness of the article, but thinks it gives the impression that no poor clay tile is made. We are glad to state that this is far from the truth. If the clay body from which the tile is made contains an excess of lime and magnesium or other ingredients aside from the silicon and aluminum compounds, which should largely compose it, they are quite likely to lack uniformity of texture, will be too brittle and apt to go to pieces when exposed to ordinary soil or air conditions. And it goes without saying that a collapsed clay tile is just as worthless as a shoddy cement tile. As in the case of the cement tile, much will depend upon the integrity and reputation of the firm manufacturing. The only point in favor of the clay tile is that there is not the incentive present to scrimp expense in the cost of manufacture, as is the case with the manufacturer of cement tile in the use of poor sand and in the reduction of the per cent of cement below the proper amount. A tile drain system is no better than the poorest section in it; hence the who has in view such a system of drainage should exercise the greatest caution that the tile used should be above defect or reproach, and this holds true equally of both the burned clay and the cement product.

FAMILY AND MARKET ORCHARDS.

For the apple orchard which is to produce fruit for family use only it does very well to set several varieties, which will answer the several purposes for which the fruit is used and will cover as long a season of consumption as possible. But if the apples are to be grown for the market it is by all means best to restrict the varieties set to one or two kinds which are known to be prolific and hardy and will fetch a good price at the season when one must market them. A buyer would always prefer to handle a carload of fruit of uniform quality and one variety than a conglomerate, mixed up assortment, even if the several varieties ripened at the same time, which is rarely the case. We are well aware of the fact that if left to himself many a nurseryman will load his patrons up with just as many varieties—good, bad and indifferent—as he will take, but he ignores the conditions which make the largest success possible when he does so.

With the poultry and egg business of the country aggregating close to $500,000,000 annually, it will have to be styled as a pretty good sized side issue.

The Japs seem to have caught on to the benefits to a country of the dairy business and are picking up some fine dairy animals in this country for shipment to the Flowery Kingdom.

All too often a branchy, runaway team and an ancient, toggled up harness belong to the same man. Either one alone is bad enough, but together they are calculated to make a fellow lose what little religion he may have cultivated.

Many a colt is weak and wobbly at birth because its dam has had little or no exercise during pregnancy, coupled with a diet in which corn has formed too large a part. Moderate work will keep the mare in the best of health, and this is also best for the colt.

The young things—the lambs and little pigs—will be putting in appearance within a few weeks now, and if suitable quarters, dry and clean, are not already provided for lambing and farrowing they should be before the time arrives. Much young stuff is annually lost through neglect in this one particular.

In localities where the winter weather is cold and the snow so deep as to keep the fowls from having free range a scratching shed with south exposure should be provided adjoining the poultry house. Here in the warmer hours of the day the hens will gather and should be made to scratch for their small grain ration.

Where the manure cannot be spread at once on accumulating it should be so handled that there will be the least possible loss of its fertilizing elements from rain and weather until the job can be done. Careful tests which have been made show that if left to leach manure will lose half of its value in the course of four or five months.

In several states dogs are considered property and are given a nominal value of a dollar simply to establish their legal status. In these states an owner may recover damages if his dog is killed without good excuse and is also held responsible for damage that the dog may be responsible for, be it killing sheep, causing runaways or other form of trespass.

As a rule the low, wet acres are the richest in fertilizing elements and will be the most productive if properly tiled. In the inauguration of the more intensive type of agriculture which must surely come with a steady increase in population and cheap lands about all taken up, this redemption of the wet acres ought to receive an ever increasing attention.

Individuality in cows has been given a thorough test of late at the Wisconsin experiment station. At the end of the testing period, three years, it was found that the receipts from one cow exceeded her cost of keep by $110, while the combined profit of five other cows for the same time was only $113, but a trifle more than the same return, and that, too, with nearly five times the amount of feed and work bestowed on the one. There ought to be a suggestion or two in these figures for the practical dairyman.

A friend who has a wide awake boy sent him to the state fair last fall, let him attend the agricultural short course at the county seat a few weeks ago and says he is going to have him attend the International Live Stock show at Chicago next December. It is a fair assumption that this lad is being impressed with the importance of agriculture as a business by these means to such an extent that he will not be lured from the farm by the glitter of electric lighted streets and the chance to wear a standup collar and earn $3.50 a week behind a dry goods or clothing counter.

The claim has been made within the past few weeks that the packer has been doing the farmer a kindness by boosting the prices of live stock to such unusual levels. This is nothing the packing interests deserve any particular credit for, for the supply has been so scarce that high prices have had to be offered to supply the fresh meat trade. It is safe to say that when the rank and file of feeders have sent stuff into which they have been cramming high priced feeds to market the prices will have suffered a disastrous slump. Judging from his past conduct, when you find the packer doing anything on the benevolent order for the stock raiser the devil will have turned saint.

When rural carriers have to make a daily round of from twenty to twenty-five miles, rain or shine, snow or mud, the matter of good roads is a mighty pertinent one, and it is so held by the postal authorities at Washington, as a good many patrons in the northern snowbound states have likely concluded during the past few weeks. Some patrons we heard of the other day who live not more than forty miles away came to town following a big snowstorm which blocked the roads and gave a particular carrier fits because he did not make a certain piece of road and distribute mail along it. When they were asked if they came to town via this piece of unbroken road they answered: "Why, no. We came around the other way." The incident needs no further comment to make its point plain.

The world may owe every man a living, but with prices of foodstuffs where they are the majority of us have to scratch good and lively if we elect not to starve.

The earliest returns from the garden stuff will be secured from that planted on ground that was fall plowed. Owing to its physical condition such soil is warmer and hence makes possible a more rapid growth of plant life.

Peggy, the famous $10,000 Crystal White Orpington, hen belonging to Ernest Kellerstrass of St. Louis, was exhibited a short time since at a poultry show in Madison Square Garden, New York city. So highly is she prized that detectives were stationed near at hand to see that no harm befell her.

There is no better way to dispose of an article or implement which one does not longer need or of getting track of that which one does not have than by the insertion of a two or three line local in the home paper. We have found a number of farmers who employ this method and find it very satisfactory.

Many a boy or man has been able to give a clean and decent life because of a feeling of self respect—a regard for the worth and sacredness of his own personality—or from consideration of a family record before him in which he has felt just pride. Fortunately indeed are those who have an anchor of this type when times of stress and temptation come on.

The potted house roses may be kept free from the minute red spiders and the green lice by dipping the plant in a soapuds of fair strength every two or three days and by an occasional spraying with a tobacco solution made by steeping tobacco stems and leaves or cheap smoking tobacco in warm water. Should the plants be troubled with mildew sprinkling with flower of sulphur will correct the trouble.

In buying a sow for breeding purposes it is well for the purchaser to take account of the number of pigs there were in the litter in which she was born. There may have been three, maybe eight, and possibly eleven or twelve. The young sow is quite likely to follow the breeding habit of her dam in respect of the number of the litter, and if a good producer is wanted a sow from a large litter should be selected.

In selecting seed corn for planting in the northern portion of the corn belt, where the season from planting to frost is barely more than a hundred days, a fellow will do well to steer shy of ears having too deep a kernel, as this type of corn, while handsome to look at and all right when planted in its proper clime, is almost sure to be late in maturing, to get caught with the frost and sour on the cob, making it impossible to properly cure and keep it.

It is conceded quite generally now by poultrymen that they have made a study of food values for laying hens that in the past has been lacking. Especially corn, in its various forms, have constituted no large a per cent of the ration for the largest egg production. Tests recently made show best results from substituting the nitrogenous foods—clover, alfalfa, bran, etc.—in place of most of the corn. Under favorable conditions otherwise this one change in the diet of the hens has given remarkable results.

In a recent address before a North Dakota stock and grain growers' association a well known writer on agricultural subjects brought the charge against the manure spreader that its use means the distribution of large quantities of weed seeds in the raw and unfermented manures which it handles. There may be something in this on a farm that is badly fouled with weeds. But the way to remedy the evil is not by dispensing with the use of the manure spreader, but by getting rid of the weeds, and to accomplish this a clean cultivation of rilled crops and a sensible system of crop rotation are the only methods that need be adopted.

There hasn't been a spring in years when the roads over so large an area were in as bad shape as they will be during the next two or three months. This is in part due to an unusually heavy October and November rainfall, coupled with an unprecedented fall of snow during the past three months. There is no agency by which the highways can be made shipshape in a shorter time than by the judicious use of the King road drag—in brief, the two halves of an eight or ten inch diameter log cut to a length of about eight feet and fastened together, one about three feet in front of the other, with flat side to the front, so that when pulled along the road they will work the loose surface earth toward the middle of the road, leveling down the humps and filling up the cuts and chuck holes. Where a log of the type described is not available a very satisfactory substitute is oak planks 2 by 10 inches and of the desired length, with a quarter inch thick strip of strap iron fastened on the planks so as to project enough to give the planks a scraping edge. It will not be long after the snow goes off that such a drag can be used, as there will be little frost in the ground and the roads will dry out fast.

AT NAVY YARD

Moving to a New Home

Sergeant J. W. Barracks, marine guard, who has been a resident of Daniel street for the past year, has taken a residence on Court street.

Sheriff Gillette (called in the Hall Case).

Sheriff Gillette, of Monroe county, New York, who arrested James E. Hall after being released by the navy on a confession to the murder of Anna C. Schumacher at Rochester, came here today and appeared as a witness in the court martial hearing now on at the yard in which Hall is being tried on several charges.

The Major in Great Demand

Major Henry Leonard, U. S. M. C., commandant of the naval prison, is in Washington where he will act as counsel for Major General George F. Elliott of the marine corps, who will face a court of inquiry to investigate a dispute between General Elliott and Adjutant Charles H. Lauchheimer, U. S. M. C., which has led to much trouble in the marine corps headquarters, coming from the suspension of Adjutant Lauchheimer, by General Elliott.

Patapsco Ordered to Join the Fleet

Chief Boatswain in Norcott, commanding the tug Patapsco, has received orders to join the fleet which has been ordered to carry out target practice at Hampton Roads instead of Guantanamo Bay and which will assemble at Hampton Roads not later than March 30. The maneuvers will continue for five weeks, after which the ships will be sent to the several yards along the coast. The Patapsco is expected to return to this station.

It's Certainly the Place

Local captains and seafaring men seem of the opinion that if congress builds 32,000-ton battleships a new dock will be built on Seavey's island to accommodate the craft in addition to the big stone dock already in use. This, the skippers say, will be because of the deep water, the use of the most valuable land already in possession of the government, climate and the advantage the yard already has in new equipment.—Boston Globe.

This Will Cause a Bigger Fight Than the Meyer-Newberry Acts Did If Carried Out

Nothing more has been heard concerning the project, of which Secretary Meyer has hinted, in favor of having extensive repair work on naval ships done by contract instead of at the navy yards. The mere suggestion of such a thing, especially in the case of the U. S. S. Alabama, which is to be overhauled and improved at the New York navy yard, has aroused keen interest in Congress. The first real indication of any such serious purpose on the part of the navy department will undoubtedly lead to emphatic protests from those who are interested in preserving for the navy yards as much work as may be sent there in the interest of the civil force. Mr. Meyer's proposition has been received by the House naval committee as a possibility that there may safely be a reduction in the appropriations made for navy yard maintenance and there are indications that the subject will come up at the next session of Congress.—Army and Navy Register.

A Hard Thing to Act on

The Army and Navy Register, speaking on the closing of some of the navy yards, has the following:

Every now and then members of the House and Senate naval committees are convinced that some of the navy yards may be closed. An argument in favor of this would, of course, be the discovery of economy of letting repair work by contract instead of sending it to the navy yards; but, at the same time those who understand why and how navy yards are kept in operation find it impossible to entertain any serious expectation of drastic economy in that direction. The only way to close a navy yard is to do it gradually and without advertisement of that intention. Mr. Newberry's promulgation of orders closing two small navy yards led to a rumormongering which Mr. Meyer found it impossible to resist, and one of the first acts of the present head of the navy department was to rescind the order, which was one of Mr. Newberry's last official acts.

LIVELY WALKING MATCH

Two sports do a hike for $25.00

About fifty sports gathered near the railroad station on Sunday to witness the start of a hike between a well known wine clerk and a butcher. The distance was from the depot to the plant of the Eastern Oil and Rendering Company.

Bill won out by twenty-three yards and, though he is known as an expert in walking, he never experienced such a close contest and has never been up against such a lively man on the road as Griff.

The judges say with a few more days at training the meat cutter will put Big Bill in the has been class.

The prize was $25.

NOTABLE GIFTS TO ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

A large gathering of the parishioners of St. John's church took place at the chapel on State street on Sunday evening where an interesting ceremony was held in connection with the recent gifts made to this historic house of worship. These gifts were, a new silver chalice and paten from Robert M. Hall of Montclair, N. J., in memory of his brother, the late Charles Carroll Hall, for many years a constant attendant at St. John's, and a brass altar cross, presented by the coadjutor of Christ church, in memory of the late Rev. Henry Emerson Hovey, first rector of Christ church parish.

Rev. Edward M. Parker, coadjutor, was present and blessed the gifts.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE

One of the dangerous things that is frequently done is the carrying of lighted lamps about the house and sometimes even into the stable. That is one of the principal causes of the fearfully high insurance rates on farm buildings at a distance from fire fighting apparatus.

In the city it is not so bad, for the firemen will quickly be on the spot, but prevention is better than the water cure for a fire.

The insurance cannot replace burned or damaged goods or provide that you will live in comfort while the workmen are repairing the house.

The Rockingham Light and Power Company would be pleased to show you how to get prevention by the use of electric lights. chlt
